Home hints

MEATLOAF TIP — As a 72-year-old retired man I am often called upon to do the cooking because my wife is still working.

I've read about a lot of substitutes for bread crumbs in meatloaf but none are similar to mine. I use a little grated carrot and sweet-sour relish in place of the bread crumbs. — Charles W. Tuttle, Utah

FROSTED GRAPES — I came across a wonderful little recipe that called for dipping small clusters of fresh seedless grapes in beaten egg white and then sprinkling them with granular.

I was having trouble frosting the grapes evenly, when my smart husband suggested that I put the grapes in a plastic bag and shake it on the grapes it worked!

The frosted grapes can be used as a garnish for salad or dessert, or are pretty enough to be used as a dessert by themselves. As an extra calorie saver, I used sugar substitute. — Lucille L. Spring Valley, N.Y.
